Cotton Exports.

Cotton manufactures present one of the striking features of the year's exports, having advanced from $22,403,-713 in 1904 to $49,866,080 in the year just ended. The growth occurred chiefly in cotton cloth exports, $14,696,199 being the total in 1904 and $41,320,542 the figure for 1905. To China there was an increase of about 400,000,000 yards over last year's exportation of 769,000,000 and the value of other cotton cloth exported to that country increased from ported to that country increased from $4,000,000 in 1904 to $27,750,000 in 1905 Japanese was the only other country to show a considerable increase, total chow a considerable, increase, total being 16,000,000 yards as against 440,000 ards in 1904.

MINER BURNED TO DEATH IN HIS CABIN

Murray, Ida., Aug. 13.—Patrick Moran, a pioneer placer miner of Idaho and Montana, was burned to death in his cabin here early today. He went to sleep with a candle burning in a miner's candlestick stuck in the wall, which ignited the wall paper. It is said that Moran for many years past had been involved in litigation with the city of Helena, Mont., over valuable property. Part of the time he had lived at Helena.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Statistics complied by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor show that the exports of manufacturers in the fiscal year just ended amounted to $543,620,297, as against $452,415,921 in the preceding year, $433.—Statistics of the output of canned tomatoes for this year at half a million dollars less in the three counties of Box Elder, Weber and Davis than it was a year ago. Outsteps Population.

The growth in the exportation manufacturers is shown to have largely exceeded the grown in population. Out of thirty leading articles only seven show a falling off for the year as compared with 1904. Iron and steel manufactures supply about one-fourth of the couptries supply about one-fourth of the west Indies, Japan and other Oriental countries.

The packers, however, have some monetary compensation in the fact that the commodity will bring a much better price this season and that there is already a brisk demand for western canned tomatoes from eastern sections. The tomatogrower has no such compensation for the loss of his crop by the blight, from the fact that he has no banancial interest in the part of last year's pack left over for sale this year unless he happens to be interested in the factories, and for this year's tomatoes the price was fixed by centract made with the factory people at the rates in vogue in the year of plenty.

(Special to The Herald.)

Boise, Ida., Aug. 13.—At Randall's transfer on the Roosevelt road on Friday. Charles Hanlin was shot and instantly killed by Tom Little. The latter had a hearing and was discharged on the ground that the killing was justifiable. Both men came from Roosevelt together, Little, it seems, owed Hanlin and the latter thought Little should pay the account. They were drinking together and the subject of the debt came up in the saloon. The testimony at the hearing showed that Hanlin was disposed to be ugly over the matter. Little left and went to where he had pitched camp, being followed by Hanlin. The latter, upon arriving at camp, walked over to a tree, some thirty yards away, where his gun was standing. He picked up the weapon, according to the evidence, and fired at Little. The latter, thereupon, secured his gun and fired twice at Hanlin. One shot pierced his heart and the other struck him in the stomach. Nothing is known of the antecedents of Hanlin. Little's home is in Boise, where he has a family.

A small organ was located at one side of the platform for the use of Emanuel Anderson, the church organist.

Rev. Dr. Leonard, corresponding secretary of the missionary society of the church, delivered the corner stone address, taking for his text: "Christ, the only Foundation."

Dr. Leonard began by telling of his first visit to Salt Lake City:
"I first crossed the continent in 1872," he said. "At that time I found at Ogden a poor excuse for a station and a few shantles scattered among the sagebrush. Just before I reached Ogden, I was met on the train by Rev. G. M. Pierce, at that time pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church in Salt Lake. He invited me to speak in his church on my return from the coast and I promised. On my return I fulfilled that promise. The services were held over a livery stable in what I presume was intended for a hay mow. Rev. Dr. James M. Buckley, then pastor at Stamford, Conn., and now each of the Christian Advocate in New York, was present that morning. I remember also that Judge McKean that morning."

The laying of a corner stone means the laying of a corner stone means that a foundation has first been built."

"The laying of a corner stone means that a foundation has first been built." Dr. Leonard continued. "In this case it is a foundation from a new Methodist It is a foundation from a new Methodist church, the old one having served its purpose. If you will look about today, you will see that this foundation seems to look into the future. It is large, solid and permanent. It means that we are here to stay. We are here to stay until Gabriel sounds his trumpet. Let everybody in the state of Utah understand that. If this church edifice wears out in the service we will build another, and another and another. By the other, and another and another. By the grace of God, there will always be a Methodist church in Salt Lake, more than one church, indeed, several of them as the city expands."

them as the city expands."
Governments endure because they have firm foundations, said Dr. Leonard. He attributed the trouble in the Russian empire to rottenness in the foundation of the government and said the United States government seems secure because it is founded on principles of equity.

"The Church of Jesus Christ has a sure foundation, because it has Jesus Christ, himself, for a cornerstone," said Dr. Leonard.

clesiasticism had at times taken the place of religion.

"The Methodist Episcopal church must be on its guard so that it shall not be run by a machine." he said.

"We are not here, or in any other place, to compete with other forms of worship, but to co-operate, to build up," said Dr. Leonard. "We are here up," said Dr. Leonard. "We are here to conserve the rights of the individ-uals, to assist in the growth and de-velopment of the country. We are here to eliminate all teaching of secular dog-ma from the public schools of our coun-try and to fight all who try to invade our schools to divert funds to denomi-national institutions."

This declaration brought applause from the audience. In conclusion, Dr. Leonard said: Leonard said:
"I say once again we are here to stay and once a year there will be a report from the mission superintendent or from someone else, but there will be a report. Let it be reviewed as it was this afternoon by Dr. Talmage or not, there will be a report."

SERMON BY BISHOP MOORE.

Portland Divine Preaches on Nature of Christ.

Bishop David H. Moore of Portland delivered the sermon at the First Methodist Episcopal church yesterday foremon, taking his text from 1 Timothy. "This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners."

The church edifice was filled to its capacity. The opening services were participated in by Rev. Benjamin Young, pastor of the church, Dr. H. J. Talbot, superintendent of the Utah mission. Rev. E. E. Mork, presiding elder, and Dr. A. B. Leonard of New York.

Bishop Moore said, in substance:
Paul held a dual relation to the apostolic church, in each of which he was pre-eminent. He was both evangelist and theologian and in our text he gives us one of the basic principles of his and theologian and in our text he gives us one of the basic principles of his theology—Christ, the supernatural savior of sinful men. So earnest was he throughout his entire career in emphasizing the truth that he has been charged with having but three ideasas inful world, a holy God and an intermediate between the two uniting them by his redeeming grace, the Lord, Jesus Christ. Sin is a supreme and universal fact. The holiest of men must confess it and all who are thoughtful must deplore it. There is enough goodness left in every man at times to stir him up. Ever relying upon his own strength, the end of the experiment is failure. With growing desperation he may appeal to family and friends, but they are equally powerless. If he turn to learning, philosophy, reason, they but mock his calamity. If he turn to rites and ceremonies and depend upon prayers and offerings, even of the most remarkable character, they are equally ineffectual. And still, if he is true to the yearnings of his soul, after he has exhausted the resources of human strength, God will give him aid, and if he uplifts himself he is prepared for the full significance of the glorious text that Christ Jesus broke into the world to save sinners like himself.

Christ the Savior.

Christ the Savior.

This was Paul's theology. Evidently, Paul had no thought that Christ was a mere man. He presented him as the divine savior of the world. The differences attending the human conception of union in one person of two natures never gave him pause. He presented Christ as pre-existing, as a lamb slain from the foundations of the world as a divine savior of the world.

Many men who do not accept Christ rank him as the most perfect human

Many men who do not accept Christ rank him as the most perfect human being, and yet if Christ be not divine we must shrink from him with abhorrence. The claims he makes to sinlessness are utterly inconsistent with mere humanity. If he is not the creator of the world, then he is a shameless impostor, and his arrogance is colossal. If he is not the Holy one, then he is the offspring of illicit love, and he is the offspring of illicit love, and there is no alternate position.

We see him radiant, perfect and glori-We see him radiant, perfect and glorious as a divine savior and triumphing where human strength has failed over sin, death and the grave. Paul rejoices over him with exceeding great joy and exults in the assurance through him of everlasting love. If we challenge Paul to bring forth other witnesses to sustain his position, John and the Magdelene give their blessed corroborative. dalene give their blessed corroborative testimony. The circle described from the cross as its center by radius of redeeming grace stretching from the cross to the Magdalene includes us all and we have but to accept Christ in-tellectually, to accept him with loving obedience in our hearts, to surrender ourselves henceforth unto this teaching in order to enter into Paul's assur-ance and ecstasy.

Bishop Moore will leave this evening for Montana. Favored by Precedent.

"Moreover," said this Japanese authority, "all international precedent and usage favored the rule of secrecy. It would be manifestly improper for a great international issue to be tried in the newspapers day by day and hour by hour. Publicity would necessarily hamper and harass the negotiations. In the peace conference at Paris following your Spanish-American war that rule obtained, and it was not until some time after the conference adjourned that the proceedings became public.

Decided It Would Be Improper.

"But, in view of the worldwide interest, and the enterprise of the American journalist, Mr. Takahira decided that it would be proper to make to the press at such times as were deemed advisable brief formal statements agreed to by both sides. All other statements published were to be considered unauthenticated. It was to secure the possibility of secrecy that the United States placed at the disposal of the pienipotentiaries the building on a government reservation where the entrance could be cleaged.

"It would be considered remarkable if Mr. Witte was not apprised before arrival at Portsmouth of this preliminary agreement as to secrecy entered into upon the particular suggestion of Count Cassini. At any rate when the question was raised by our plenipotentiaries at the first session of the conference he assented and has not since protested."

Witte Courts Publicity.

Witte Courts Publicity.

Mr. Witte, however, still insists that he courts on behalf of the Russians the widest publicity of the proceedings. He said today in response to the Japanese statements:

"I am not acquainted with the understanding which may have taken place before I was appointed plenipotentiary for the peace negotiations. What I said and what I repeat is that the initiative of keeping the deliberations of the conference secret was taken at the first meeting by the Japanese plenipotentiaries. It is true that the Russian plenipotentiaries made no opposition to it because the Russians did not come to America to defend the rights of the press. There are so many differences on serious questions between Russia and Japan that we would not undertake to add more or less important affairs. What I wish to have clear is that if the Japanese have nothing to the contrary I am ready at any moment to publish the full text of all the documents concerning the peace conference as well as the record of the proceedings."

Sakhalin is under occupation, and the fate of Kamchatka is within easy command of Japan. Other portions of Russia's manitume possessions are within easy access of Japanese assallants.

"A shrewd diplomat and statesman like M. Witte cannot be lind to the facts. A man of his financial experience ought to be alive to the fact that the expenditures required for the continuation of hostilities ought to b utilized in a channel productive of a greater benefit to Russia.

"However blind Russian statesmen may be, it is impossible to believe that they fail to appreciate the logic of events.

"Whatever differences may exist between the plenipotntiaries, they can only be in the point and degree of cession and indemnity, not in the principle of cession and indemnity. The Hochi takes a pessimistic view of the negotiations, in view of the reported refusal of Russia to cede territory. It declares that Japan ought to pay more attention to Manchuria than to Portsmouth.

HOPEFUL FEELING

Russian Officials Evidently Expect Witte to Make Peace.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 13.—The Russian capital is in the dark regarding the meaning of the prolonged conference at Portsmouth on Saturday. The purport of M. Witte's message received here has been imparted only to a few officials. Nevertheless in certain numerers today there is a certain feeling of hopefulness noticeable, which is not altogether accounted for in the ground that thus far there has been no rupture and that the terms are still under-discussion, with a chance of an understanding being reached.

The only comment vouchsafed was that M. Witte's answer seemed not altogether unacceptable to the Japanese, else the conference would have ended then and there.

PESSIMISM AT TOKIO.

Newspapers Have Little Hope of Treaty of Peace.

Tokio, Aug. 13.—The Japanese newspapers continue to take a pessimistic view of the results of the conference at Portsmouth. The Jiji says:

"It is not possible to place much hope in the outcome of the negotiations. It is patent to everybody that the best course open to Russia is the conclusion of peace, as-it is now impossible for her to recover her lost prestige. Should M. Witte conclude a peace which means the acceptance of Japan's terms, he will find himself confronted by a strong opposition, which will cost him the confidence of the emperor and the Russian government. If M. Witte is brave enough to himself confronted by a strong opposition, which will cost him the confidence of the emperor and the Russian government. If M. Witte is brave enough to subordinate his personal interest completely to the good of his country, he is in an unique position to render a meritorious service to Russia. But it is too much to expect such a sentiment in any Russians statesman under the present form of government.

"There is every indication that the Russian statesman under the present form of government.

"There is every indication that the Russian delegates will decline to accept Japan's terms and that a rupture will occur. Should a rupture occur the degree of Japan's terms will not be responsible for the break."

The Asahi says: "We are inclined to pessimism, because Russia is allowing herself to be influenced by a misunderstanding in regard to Japan's actual condition and strength. Russia himks that Japan is solicitous for peace, thinking that peace alone can save Japan from a collepse in the near future. Russia still thinks she can exhaust Japan. As long as the Russian delegates allow themselves to be misguided they will not accept Japan's terms, which are the lowest that Japan, as a victor, can accept. The Russian terms will not satisfy Japan, hence there is little hope that peace will result from the conference."

these dispatches is general is pessimistic, although it is admitted that the mere fact that the plenipotentiaries are continuing to talk is indicative of the posstoling to talk is indicative of the pos-sibility that some arrangement finally will be reached whereby the continuance of the war may be avoided. The Times this morning is particularly hopeless in its expressions regarding the conference and almost goes as far as to say that a peaceful outcome is ompis-sible.

The Morning Post has an interview with M. Witte in which the Russian envoy discusses the question of an understanding being reached between Russia and Great Britain, which, he said, was quit within the bounds of probability. M. Witte's Explanation.

M. Witte's Explanation.

Explaining American sympathy for Japan, the Morning Post's correspondent quotes M. Witte as saying that it is due in the first place to the spread of cultivation by Japan; secondly, to the negligence of Russia in failing to place her case properly before the world, and, lastly to Jewish influence.

With regard to an understanding between Great Britain and Russia, M. Witte is quoted as saying:

"It would not be possible for England and Russia to reach an understanding direct against a nation friendly to Russia. If it did not have the object in view, then there is no reasoft why Russia could not be friendly with England and still remain on good terms with Germany. For instance, Russia and Franca are allies and Russia and Germany are good friends. The fact of Russia's having the good will of both France and Germany has prevented many historical events from taking place that otherwise would have happened."

According to the Post, M. Witte firmly declined to discuss the peace negotiations beyond saying:

"All I can say is that the outlook is not clear."

On the financial situation M. Witte is quoted as showing that Russia is amply on the financial situation M. Witte is quoted as showing that Russia is amply able to carry on the war, not for a year, but for years, for so long as may be necessary.

Tokio, Aug. 14.—The Nichi Nichi says this morning:

"Russia's sensitiveness and humiliation are natural, but the excess of such sentiment is liable to lead to greater humiliation, and possibly to disgrace. Japan. the victor, consented to open a peace meeting in response to the chivalrous efforts of President Roosevelt, who was supported by France and Germany. Should Russia continue are builfing she will find herself isolated and allenated from the civilized powers."

The Nichi Nichi further declares that Japan's terms are modest and that Russia alone will be responsible if there is a breach at Portsmouth.
